POLL WORKERS VITAL IN ELECTION PROCESS

The credit for having the election process go so smoothly, despite a large number of late registrations, goes to the poll workers. In this area, they were as follows:

In Woodstock, Registrar Pamela R. House led a team that consisted of Pauline Croteau, Kathleen McAllister, June Demarest, Margaret Sicotte, Alice Hoyt, Patricia Whitman, Linda Stowell, and Margaret Hall.

In Greenwood, Town Clerk Phyllis Coolidge worked with Charlotte Kimball, Leah Deegan, Katherine Hakala, and Marilyn Morgan.

Andover's polls were kept functioning by Town Clerk Kathy Williamson and Grace Simmons, Sandra Clement, Sharon Hutchins, Eldora ("Dolly") Jones, and Laura Hutchins.

In Newry, Election Warden Roger Hanson worked with Nancy Dennis and Eleanor Morton.

Bethel had two crews of workers. They were: Town Clerk Merion Brown, Celia Gorman, Agnes Thurston, Virginia Walker, Edleen

CELIA GORMAN made it an even 50 years as ballot clerk in Bethel, when she participated in the administration of Tuesday's general election.

Winslow, Elizabeth Bane, Geraldine Howe, Eunice Roy, Louise Lincoln, Louise Annis, Barbara Brooks, Mary Buckman, Shirley Clough, Susan Farrar, Robin Lee, Deputy Registrar Neta Littlefield, Mary Kemiston, Carol Nielsen, Karen Paul, William Pooley, Wendy Rice, Karen Bean, Elizabeth Gilbert, Dorothy Bartlett, Katherine Bennett, Jeri Brooks, Mary Brown, Lynda Chandler, Steve Chandler, Marcia Denison, Elaine Dresser, Judith Webster, Judith Young, Robert Saunders, Terry Clark.

In Gilead, Town Clerk Mildred McLain worked with Warden Lyn Chapman and ballot clerks Mary Cole, Rose Taylor, Georgia MacArthur and Stella Tyler.

In Upton, Town Clerk Chris Murphy, Warden Richard LeComte and ballot clerks Arline Bernier and Rosemary Scott were in charge of the counting.

Bethel selectmen appoint interim town manager

In a special meeting Wednesday evening, Nov. 7, in the town office meeting room, the Board of Selectmen voted to appoint Dewey Thayer as interim town manager until a new town manager is selected. Mr. Thayer will be taking up his duties on Nov. 19.

Mr. Thayer will be carrying out the duties and powers of town manager stated in Title 30, section 2319 of the Maine Statutes and will be appointed treasurer, tax collector, welfare director, and airport manager. This represents a significant departure with past practice by assigning the power to hire and fire municipal employees and set wages (within parameters set by the board) for the same employees. These changes of powers, hitherto held by the board, brings the town's organizational structure into conformance with state law.

Mr. Thayer, a former selectman in Paris, was town manager for 15 years in St. George, in Knox County, and is now retired in Mason. His wife is the former Verna Grover, a Mason native.

Chairman Arlan Jodrey informed the board Monday night that Mr. Thayer had approached him and said he would be willing to work part-time on an hourly basis.

Mr. Jodrey said the prospective interim town manager could work three hours a day while the search gets underway for a permanent chief administrator. "It would be within our budget," he said.

The search, with the Maine Municipal Association conducting the initial screening of candidate applications, will take at least three months.

PENNY YORK is all smiles after getting the news that she was selected to the state field hockey all-star roster (Class C). Penny, a junior, plays on the forward line of the Telstar team. She and her coach, Sally Hannon, were scheduled to go to the all-star banquet this week. Penny says the Rebels will field a good team next year, with lots of returning veterans. This year, she said, was a building year, which saw the Rebels finishing 5-10-1. (See story, page 8.)

VETERANS DAY PARADE AT LOCKE MILLS SUNDAY

Jackson-Silver Post #68, American Legion of Locke Mills, is sponsoring a Veterans Day Parade on Sunday, Nov. 11, at 1 p.m. The parade units will form at 12:30 at the hall on the Gore Road.

A short program will immediately follow the parade. The speaker will be John Howe, Past State Commander, of Southwest Harbor, who will also make some special presentations. Mrs. Judy Andrews Kampenmann of Gillette, N.J., will be a guest.

The Telstar marching band, led by Harry Davis, will be furnishing the music. A car will be available to ride in, courtesy of John Head. All veterans in the area, the W.W. I Barracks, Boy Scouts, and others are invited to participate. Doughnuts, milk and coffee will be served after the program.

REMINDER

Bethel taxpayers are reminded that 50% of the 1985 tax bills received in early October should be paid on or before Nov. 15 if they desire to escape an interest charge of 1.25% per month.

Motorists are reminded that overnight parking on Bethel streets and ways is prohibited from Nov. 1 to April 1.

NOTICE TO CONTRIBUTORS

Because of the lack of postal service on Monday, Nov. 12, due to observance of Veterans Day, those having material to be included in the Nov. 15 issue of The Citizen are asked to make submission as early as possible.

Mills polls 59.6% of vote in Tuesday balloting for District 49 House seat

Re-elected President Reagan's coattails didn't extend to District 49, where Democratic incumbent Jeff Mills, in an altered district, handily defeated Republican challenger Al Barth. The final total, with the 15 towns of the district reporting, was 2,518 for Mills and 1,703 for Barth.

At Democratic Party headquarters in a store front on Main Street in Bethel, where the candidate and his supporters had gathered to monitor the returns, local bookstore owner Dan Cousens commented, "This may be the only Democratic landslide in the county."

It was not a total landslide, but it was a one-sided victory in what many had been predicting to be a race too close to call. Mr. Mills took every town in the district except Rangeley—one of the Franklin County towns added to the district this year—and Lovell.

But even as the vote totals came in on the phone being watched impatiently by campaign manager Cathy Newell, Mills was not celebrating a victory until almost midnight. Despite the fact that returns from the smaller towns had him consistently ahead of Mr. Barth, he said the turning point would be the Bethel vote.

It didn't come in until after 11 p.m., when Mary Keniston came into the storefront from counting ballots at the fire station. It's 907 for Mills and 515 for Barth, she said, and the place erupted in cheers. Mr. Mills seemed to relax with satisfaction.

He had said earlier in the evening, "If we can just take Bethel and not get blown away in Rangeley..." And that is exactly what he did. Rangeley, a Republican stronghold, with no familiarity with either candidate, gave Barth only a slight advantage, 362 to 317.

The bad news began for Mr. Barth when the first returns were phoned in to the Republican headquarters at former Representative Karen Brown's house on Main Street in Bethel. Hanover, a Republican town whose citizens voted the straight GOP ticket through other national and state races, then came in for Democrat Mills.

Vote totals

With few exceptions, local electorates voted solid Republican. What deviations there were in local races were where personality and performance had more to do with the campaign than party affiliations. All area towns supported the Reagan-Bush ticket, and all supported Senator Cohen over challenger Mitchell and Congresswoman Snow over challenger Bull.

In local races, however, Democratic State Senator Ed Erwin, running unopposed, won in District 8, as did his wife, Phyllis Erwin, running unopposed as a Democrat in Legislative District 53. In Senate District 15, Democratic incumbent R. Donald Twitchell was an easy winner over Mary Anne Smith, while Democrat Francis Perry ran unopposed in Legislative District 52.

In Senate District 25, Republican Henry Black beat Democrat George Carroll. In House District 48, Republican William Lawrence defeated Democrat Gary Wilfong. In House District 45, Democrat P. Kelly Simpson bettered GOP candidate Robert Moore. In House District 54, Republican Richard Armstrong defeated Democrat Susan Gallant.

In Legislative District 49, the new district split between Oxford

MORE SEARCHING THAN SIGHTING FOR AREA HUNTERS

With the deer season almost two weeks old, hunters are finding they are doing more searching than sighting, and they're doing very little shooting.

"It's terrible this year," said Lisa Tyler of Mountain View Store in West Bethel, one of the local tagging stations. "It's really dropped." Mrs. Tyler reports that her station had tagged only four deer as of yesterday, compared with a total of 14 last year. Of the four, only one was killed by a local hunter; the three others being bagged by a party from Rhode Island.

Sam Westleigh, at Westleigh's

Auto Service in Bethel, which has just started tagging game this season, reports he has tagged only two deer so far, plus four bear.

Arthur Gauthier, at Bear River Cabins in Newry, has tagged a fair number of bear, 10, but only two deer. "Since the coyote moved in, there's no deer," he explained. In contrast, he noted, "We used to tag about a hundred." But, he pointed out, that was back when hunters could shoot either bucks or does. Now, in this area, the season is restricted to bucks.

According to reports, Andover's station has tagged two deer so far and Upton has tagged none.

The deer season began Oct. 29 and lasts until Nov. 24. The bear season began Sept. 1 and lasts until Nov. 30.

TO THE VOTERS OF DISTRICT 49:

Thank you for your support on Election Day. I look forward to continuing to serve as your State Representative.
Sincerely,
Jeff Mills

High St., West Paris

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

This is a cold and blustery day and I mean cold. Being Friday, Russell and I went to Norway to do the washing and many errands that needed doing. I had an appointment in South Paris at ten, anyway, and we got things done and got home just about noon and Wynona and Courtney drove in just behind us. Wynona said she had been looking for us in town and couldn't find us, but did just as we got home. Got lunch in a hurry as everyone was ready to eat and then visited with Bonnie and Cori for a while. Bryce has been down from Bethel the last two days getting Peggy's camps finished inside and stopped in to leave things that he had borrowed. We decided that we should go up and see what it looked like now that it is finished, so Bonnie, Cori, Russell and I went up to see what had been done. It will be especially nice once Peggy has a chance to paint where Bryce has finished around the new windows and the old ones as well. Things have been moved around and it looks nice. The picture window in the front gives Peggy lots more light in the camp and with all the renovations, it gives her more room in the center of the kitchen, which should be a great help to her. Expect she will drive in sometime Saturday, as our nephew, Edwidge Yates, is getting married and she is coming to attend the wedding with us.

Last Saturday, Russell painted most of the day to get the inside of the addition done and then we went to the Grange Hall at Newry Corner to go to Grange. We took things for supper, but only five of us there for supper and just before 7:30, when Grange meeting is supposed to start, one more member came, but that didn't give us enough to hold a meeting, so after visiting with Brother Ernest Holt, who was the last one to come, we went home and decided not to try to have a meeting on Nov. 10 as too many of the members are going to be away. Our next meeting, of Bear River Grange, will be on Nov. 24, if enough show up to have a meeting. It is discouraging to have no more people come, but nothing can we seem to do about it.

Russell did more painting on Sunday and Myrna and Bernard White from Auburn came to do more work on Peggy's camps. They are putting on shingles and and it will look nice with the brown trim they have put on. However, I'm afraid now that the windows are in, they will have more painting to do on the outside trim. They joined us for dinner and we enjoyed their company, as usual when they are up.

Left bright and early on Monday for another treatment on my sinuses in Harrison and then was to go for a back treatment, but called the doctor to let him know I might be a little late and found he was sick, so haven't had my back fixed this week. Hope someone is available next week.

This has been a busy week for Lawrence and Grace as they have helped Pat and Alvin to move a lot of their things to the new house and get it ready for living in. I haven't been up to see it for some time and am sure the changes are tremendous since I last saw what they had done. They hope to get into it soon and I hope so for them. We know what it is to move when it is cold weather as it sure was cold last year when we moved here.

As I said earlier, Bryce and friend were down to work on Peggy's camp and have done a lot to change it. Monday was one of the days they came. We got a note from Peggy saying she would be home earlier than we had expected, so Bryce and friend came and finished what was to be done, before she gets here tomorrow.

Have done some sewing when the sun has shone this week and got a new dress done for Wynona. Got to do a little sewing for myself, but that always comes last. Got to get things done for Christmas, then I'll have time to do a few things for myself, I hope.

Russell got the portico done and has it all painted now and it looks fine. Wednesday, Frank Waterhouse stopped in to visit for a few minutes and said he had wondered if we would ever get it done. We are slow, I guess, but get things done eventually. We were glad to have him stop as we had heard Mother talk about him at times and hadn't even met him.

Didn't see many ghosts or goblins on Halloween night. They must have been prowling around in some other neighborhood. We only had a couple of visitors and they were Alvin's girls, Misty and Karen. They looked cute in their costumes. Hope they all had a good time on Halloween.

Called an old friend of mine this afternoon and had a chat. Ed-ecta Hill worked in Grant's Store when I did and I haven't gotten down to see her this summer as I had planned. Maybe I will get there one of these days. Anyway, it was good to talk with her and find out what all her family are doing.

We usually stay at home nights, unless it is Grange, but Thursday night, Russell and I went to Norway to do a little shopping. We have been so busy with all we have been doing, we haven't been shopping just to see what is in the stores for a while. It seemed nice just to look around. Of course, we needed something to take to the reception of our nephew after the wedding this coming Saturday, so got a few things. At least it was different for a change. I usually sit and crochet and Russell is apt to sit and try to read, but as he says, they make everything of such slippery paper, he can't hang onto them. He goes to sleep and drops the paper or magazine and needs some excuse for doing it, and that is a good one. No excitement to keep him awake, so why not sleep when you can?

The it's brothers keep him awake at night and he needs sleep after all he has been doing, so guess the evenings in the chair sleeping, help him to get the rest he needs. Sometimes, I envy him the ease with which he goes to sleep. Wish I could do the same thing. That shows you how boring life gets for us at times. Guess it does for everyone too.

Hope you knew who to vote for on election day. Wish I did, but didn't see too much choice this year in getting a good president. It is hard to know who will do the best and none of them keep their promises, so which one is the better of two? I sure hope you knew, as I didn't.

June Swan, Louise Tetley, Sylvia Wight, Eleanor Morton, Olive Anderson, Beatrice Lowell, Karlene Bachelder, Eleanor Davis, Betsy Clark and Gilbert Seeley, were in Rumford bowling Oct. 30. Karlene Bachelder was high scorer.

Arthur Cummings, Bethel, called on his sister, Eleanor Morton, one afternoon last week.

The title of Pastor Hanscom's message Sunday morning was "Who Will Be Chosen," with Scripture Reading from Joshua 24:14-31, Matthew 4:8-11 and Mark 13:20-23. The responsive reading was taken from St. Matthew, chapters 3 and 4. Coffee was served after church with Sylvia Wight, hostess.

The Windy Valleys Snowmobile Club will meet at the Club House Thursday, Nov. 15. A 6:30 pot luck supper will be followed by a business meeting and speaker at 7:30. James Sysko finished the roof on the municipal building, the former Raymond Foster School, Friday. The building now has a 6/12 pitch roof, instead of the original flat roof, which had been causing problems.

Gil Seeley hosted a luncheon for the Newry Ladies' bowling team Nov. 5 at the Swan club room. Guests enjoying an Italian meal included Sylvia Wight, Betsy Clark, Louise Tetley, Karlene Bachelder, Beatrice Lowell, Olive Anderson, June Swan, Nancy Wight and Eleanor Davis. Eleanor Morton was unable to attend.

The children dressed as pirates and had a treasure hunt. Ice cream and birthday cake, made and decorated by Susan Bowie, were served. Sunday afternoon a family birthday party was held at the home of her grandparents, Mr.

and Mrs. Owen Wight. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Owen Wight, Mrs. Susan Bowie, Jennifer and Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Brooke, Seneca and Amber, Newry. The cake was made and decorated by Sue Wight.

MILLS POLLS 59.6% OF VOTE

The sizeable crowd of Barth supporters expressed disappointment, but held out hope for a reversal of fortunes.

The reversal never came, and by the time Barth was counted, Mr. Barth was ready to call it a night. "It's tough to beat an incumbent," he commented, noting that, in addition to name recognition, incumbent Mills had ample time to campaign, whereas he (Barth) had to campaign in addition to conducting his normal administrative duties at Gould Academy. He said he would have needed lots more time to get around the district if he were to be able to defeat Mills.

Barbara D. Brown, a challenger of Mills a year ago, musing the phone in the GOP headquarters, told Mr. Barth, "You've got nothing to be ashamed of—you pulled a good vote."

Barth campaign manager Stan Howe analyzed his candidate's defeat this way: "It's almost impossible in Maine for an older person to beat a young, personable person right out of college." He cited Karen Brown's victory at age 22 when she began to represent the district in 1976.

Mr. Mills credited his win to his record on behalf of local issues such as keeping sludge out of Weld and getting a new piece of road for Newry, as well as his campaign strategy. That strategy, he said, was to minimize his time in Rangeley, which, although populated with over 1,000 registered voters, has a record of modest turnouts in elections. Instead of making numerous trips to that far corner of the district, as did his opponent, he concentrated his efforts on the smaller towns that he felt could be induced to vote heavily in his column. Nevertheless, the two trips he made to Rangeley, plus other trips by supporters, seemed to bear fruit, as Mr. Barth's lead there was only 45 votes, out of 679 cast.

Mr. Mills, who, together, with his mother, sister, brother-in-law and campaign manager, did not call it a night until after midnight, said, "I was pleased the people put a vote of confidence in me and I'll work hard in the next two years. I'm really pleased that in a Republican district I did well, and took every town that I had in my old district."

Even after the Democrats had all gone home, the election party continued at the GOP headquarters up the street, although not with much gaiety. Nevertheless, campaign manager Howe and the others found much to be thankful for. Mr. Howe took cheer in what he viewed as a national political realignment, and reported that local high school students had been coming in all day asking for literature on Reagan and Bush.

On the other hand, a ballot counter said that there were a lot more young people at the polls than usual, and they mostly seemed to be voting for Mills. The local Republicans noted ruefully that the wide margin of success enjoyed by Mills in last week's mock election at Telstar was a troubling, but accurate, indicator of what would happen in the real balloting.

On the bond issues, Bethel voters were generally against further indebtedness, except for the University of Maine expansion, thus differing from the rest of the state, which approved bonds for vocational institutes and for prison expansion.

On the question of bonds for vocational institutes, Bethel voters were yes 635, no 694; on new court-houses, yes 481, no 854; on expansion at the University of Maine, yes 682, no 654; on prison expansion, yes 606, no 721.

On constitutional amendments, Bethel voters voted for limiting the life of bonds authorized but not issued, 814-417; voted against the Equal Rights Amendment, 486-567; voted for setting limits on loans to veterans, 758-537; voted for restricting taxation on boats, 872-420. It was the heaviest vote ever in Bethel, with 1,444 people showing up to vote, out of 1,788 registered. The number compares with 1,319 voters in 1980 and 1,312 in 1976.

Town Clerk Merlon Brown said it was a good thing the polls opened at 8 a.m. instead of the usual 10 a.m. There were 208 people who voted in the first two hours, he said.

NOTES FROM THE BETHEL LIONS DEN

The Bethel Lions Club held its first meeting of November on the 6th. After a short social hour and an outstanding covered dish supper at the Bethel Lions Den, Club President Jerry Tyler conducted a short business meeting. Highlights of the evening were the introduction of the guest speaker and other guests: who were: Lions District Governor Ralph Gilman of South Portland; Deputy District Governor Norris Conant, Canton; Sight Conservation and Work with the Blind Chairman Dick Cross, Dixfield; and Bill Murphy of the Alameda, Calif.

Deputy District Governor Norris gave a brief presentation on membership and the use of District Committee Chairmen as guest speakers for the club and public forums. He was followed by District Governor Ralph, who led off with greetings from Lions International President Bert Mason of Donaghadee, Northern Ireland, to the Bethel Lions Club. Governor Ralph outlined two major programs of Lions International, "Drug Awareness and Diabetes" and the need to support these programs through community awareness. He also announced that Bethel would be the site of the 1985 Lions District 4th Convention in April and that the Bethel Club would be the host club.

Rotary Club News

The Bethel Rotary Club met for a luncheon meeting at The Only Place on Nov. 6. The meeting was a club assembly at which time the status of planned programs and projects and other business matters, as voted on by the board of directors, was presented to the membership.

A tentative date of Tuesday, Dec. 18, has been selected for the annual Senior Citizens Christmas dinner. More information about this dinner will be announced in the near future.

Rotary Club Christmas baskets will be distributed again this year to those selected in need. This will take place on Dec. 21. A work committee of Roger Conant, Bryce Yates, Jim Monahan and Rollie Glines will make up the baskets.

A new Rotary Club project to put on a pancake breakfast is in the planning stages. John Elliot is heading up the committee. More on this later.

The program chairman for next week is Steve Calligas. The program is not known at this writing. At the conclusion of Tuesday's meeting the nominating committee met to finalize appointment of officers and directors for the Rotary year, 1985-86. A complete listing will be published in two weeks.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN MET AT THE CHURCH NOV. 1

The United Methodist Women held their Nov. 1st meeting in the church annex with 22 members and two guests present. Bea Brown spoke on her trip to Italy, Switzerland and the Island of Sardinia, where they visited their daughter and family. She showed many pictures and articles made of work. The hostesses for the afternoon were Pauline Wieden and Betty Blake.

THIS WEEK AT THE MOSES MASON HOUSE

"Memorable Bethel Women" was the featured topic at the monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held last Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Featured speaker was Margaret Joy Tibbetts, treasurer of the society and chairman of the Board of Trustees who began her presentation by saying the history of Bethel will never be complete since it can never be documented fully the tremendous contributions Bethel women made in founding the town and seeing that life from these earliest days went on.

Miss Tibbetts did cite one of the memorable early women who during the raid upon Bethel (then known as Sudbury Canada) by six Indians upon Lt. Jonathan Clark's house showed considerable courage. Mrs. Clark hid her husband's silver watch in the ashes, broke the string on her necklace thus scattering the beads and put up such a struggle when the Indians tried to steal the silver buckles on her shoes that they were saved from plunder.

Bethel women contributed to many local Bethel institutions including the Bethel Public Library which became firmly established due to the leadership of Mary Chase Herrick and the generosity of Agnes Hastings Straw.

There also were Bethel women who made contributions to the teaching of the deaf which reached well beyond the borders of the town, including Mary True, among whose students included Alexander Hubbard, later the wife of Alexander Graham Bell.

Miss Tibbetts focused particularly on the women whose efforts are probably the most visible today, Marion True Gehring. Mrs. Gehring, perhaps more than any other Bethel person, was responsible for interesting William Bingham II in Bethel and her father's old school, Gould Academy. The rest is history.

Miss Tibbetts closed her talk with a vignette illustrating that one did not have to be of Mrs. Gehring's social level in order to make a lasting contribution to Bethel. She focused on Annie Heath who spent her life cleaning, baking and keeping house for others. For this she received very little compensation but never was known to complain. She fed the homeless at the Bethel Lock-Up and looked after needy by supplying any clothing she could come up with from donations received from Bethel people. She took interest in one of the town's oldest cemeteries (Grover Hill), long neglected, and using her own meager funds, hired a lawyer to get it placed on the town warrant and accepted by the voters. So as a result of her vision this cemetery has survived for generations of Bethel people to appreciate as an important part of the past.

During the business portion of the meeting the society president, Alden Kennett presented the artifact of the month, a wheelchair c. 1900, the gift of Willard and Sylvia Wright of Newry. He also announced that the next meeting will be held on Dec. 6 and will feature the annual Christmas program. Society Director Stanley Howe

RIDING THE CIRCUIT

Cindy Blake is symbolic of the traditional pioneer Methodist Circuit Riders who traveled from place to place on horseback sharing the gospel. Members of the Bethel United Methodist Church will be "riding the circuit" this Sunday in observance of the Circuit Rider Commitment Program. "The Circuit Rider Commitment Program is one of the most important events of our church year because everyone is involved and shares in the task," says Connie Hindman, program coordinator.

"A circuit today is a grouping of homes that are located in the same area," explained Rev. Guy Downing. He describes the Circuit Rider Commitment Program as "a stewardship program and a method of receiving commitments from people who are related to a congregation."

The commitment program employs the process of passing a routing envelope from home to

EXIT POLLS REVEAL REASONS FOR VOTING

Area voters had differing explanations for what particular ballot items drew them to the polls on Tuesday—although they all agreed they would have voted no matter what issues were up for decision.

One woman in Woodstock said she considered the presidential election the most important issue to be decided, and she cast her vote for the Mondale-Ferraro ticket. "I'm very concerned about how President Reagan approaches other countries," she said. "He produces a tone of defensiveness. He makes the other side into an enemy."

This particular voter also considered the bond issue for UMO to be of crucial importance, and voted for it.

Likewise, she voted for the state ERA amendment, saying, "Men and women ought to have the opportunity to have equality in jobs and life."

In Andover, another woman voter told The Citizen she considered the ERA amendment one of the most important items on the ballot. "I voted for that. I think we need it."

A different Andover voter also had a feminist slant on things, but was more concerned with the presidential election than the ERA issue. She voted for the Democratic ticket. "It was good to see a woman in a leadership position."

In Newry, a male voter declared himself for the ERA amendment, saying, "If a woman wants to have (an abortion) done, why not have it done right? That's the way I look at it." But he did not care for the mixed gender Democratic ticket. "I voted for Reagan," he said, "because right from the beginning I thought he'd get it. And I voted for Mills because he's local and he's done a good job."

On the bond issues, this voter said, "I voted no on all the bonds. We're living beyond our means. We owe too goddam much money."

CORRECTION:

In last week's assorted photos of "costumed cuties," one girl was incorrectly identified. Marie Lowell was the punk rocker. Jessica Prada was next to her. The gorilla-costumed gent, who was not identified, was Brian Larson.

called attention to the latest issue of Maine History News published by the Maine League of Historical Societies and Museums which features an article on the society's summer exhibit, Alphonse and Roxanna Twitchell: Folk Art Portraits. Director Howe also reported that the endowment campaign for 1984 had exceeded last year's total in number of contributors already but there was still about $1,800 needed before the end of the year to reach the $7,000 goal. He also reported that 341 copies of East Bethel Road had already been pre-paid. Anyone wishing a copy should order early to take advantage of the pre-publication discount.

Following the program, special refreshments arranged by Special Projects Chairman Persis Post were served, all of which contained either cranberries or pumpkin in keeping with the season of the year. A social hour followed.

In and About Bethel

—Virginia Walker, Correspondent—

Mary Carroll is home from the Rumford Community Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Farrell, New Haven, Conn., visited Mr. and Mrs. Guy Parker Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Randal Stevens, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Perkins attended a skating competition at the Cumberland County Civic Center, Portland, and joined Miss Jessica Dolven, formerly of Bethel for supper at the Holiday Inn. Miss Dolven was a participant in the competition.

Mrs. Kelly (Doreen) Scott has returned to her home following surgery at the Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Don Walker and Mrs. John Winslow are attending a co-ordinators meeting of Chemical Abuse Education Teams in Buckfield tonight (Thursday).

For myself, I have no regrets. Running for office has been a wonderful experience, an interesting education, and the opportunity to meet thousands of wonderful Maine people. I am especially indebted to all who worked directly or indirectly on my campaign, and, of course, to all of you who supported me.

Sincerely,
Al Barth

JACKSON-SILVER POST & UNIT MEETINGS ON NOV. 1
Jackson-Silver Post & Unit #68 of the American Legion and Auxiliary, held their meetings on Nov. 1 at their hall, Locke Mills, with a small attendance.

President Kathy Bartlett presided at the Unit meeting. A "thank you" was read from Secretary Grace Smith and Treasurer Vera Cross gave her report.

Public Relations Chairman Fran Cummings is sorry that Brooks Bros. Hardware was omitted from the list of merchants donating prizes to the Auxiliary's "afternoon social." They gave a very nice door prize, as did the eight other businesses.

The ladies voted $50 for the Togus Christmas gift shop; $25 to the Veterans Memorial Home in Augusta, and $25 to help on the community Christmas food baskets. Reported ill was Mary Lyon and Albert Foster, in Togus.

The Legion Post voted a donation to the Sarah Palmer Trust Fund in Auburn, and completed plans for Veterans Day.

COLORING BY FIRST GRADE IN BROOKS BROS. WINDOWS

The pictures adorning the windows at Brooks Bros. hardware store were colored by first grade pupils at Bethel Bible School. This coloring project, entitled "Your Friend the Policeman," is sponsored by Munda-Allen A. L. Auxiliary and is part of an effort being used state-wide to acquaint young people in the community with the police and to encourage trust in uniformed officers.

Geraldine Shimamura was a Tuesday afternoon visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mills. Reminder: Please send back library survey sheets as soon as possible.

BUDGET COMMITTEE AT WOODSTOCK ORGANIZES

An organizational meeting of the 1985 Woodstock Budget Committee was held last Monday evening at the Town Office in Bryant Pond. Emery Ryerson, a hold-over member from last year's group, was elected chairman, while Bill Riley, also a member of the '84 unit, was elected secretary. Other returning members include Sterling Mills, Leon Poland and Les Thurlow. Members appointed for the current year are John Gerity, Lee Gray, Jane Mills and Wendell Twitchell.

The budget committee functions as an advisory body to the Woodstock selectmen by comparing current budget amounts with actual expenditures, discussing proposed programs and '85 budget requests with town department heads, and finally submitting a recommended budget to the selectmen for their review and consideration.

The next regular meeting of the group is set for 7 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 26, at the Woodstock Town Office.

NOTES FROM THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday at the Chapman Inn. Final arrangements were made for attending the Boston Ski Show this weekend. Ten people will attend to represent thirteen businesses. Over $1900 worth of door prizes have been donated to the show for promotion. The Chamber is also investigating the possibility of attending the Springfield (Mass.) Exposition next September.

The coupon page project is well underway and should be printed by the end of November.

Advertising in several publications was discussed as well as ordering membership plaques or stickers. There was a general feeling that the chamber undertake a Christmas project for the town, including sponsoring a commercial and home decorating contest, Christmas tree and Santa. The chamber voted to endorse the blood drive to be held Nov. 26 and many members offered volunteer services.

A regular evening meeting of the chamber will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Bethel Historical Society. The main topic will be the development of a railroad museum. All members as well as interested public and railroad buffs are urged to attend. The upcoming Bethel promotional booklet will also be discussed.

The next directors' meeting will be held Tuesday morning, Nov. 13, at the King's Inn.

Church committee meeting on Dec. 3 at the church.

PARTIALLY DISENFRANCHISED

Albany resident David Salway put the problem in perspective: "This household would have given three votes to Al Barth." Instead, because the family voted in Greenwood, Al Barth got no votes from the Salways. "I personally would prefer to vote in Bethel," Mr. Salway said. "I think it's a little bit ridiculous to drive down there (to Greenwood)." But he did, in order to vote in the state senate race.

His wife, Norma Salway, regretted that she had chosen to vote in Greenwood. "I would've been better off to vote in Bethel."

An official in the secretary of state's office told The Citizen the only way the Salways and other Albany and Mason families can vote in Bethel and vote for an entire slate of officials is for the state legislature to re-draw the senate district those unorganized towns are in. Elaine Fleury suggested, "Whoever is elected (to the legislature from there) . . . they should say to him, 'Hey, we're in a bind here. We're up a creek!'"

Ms. Fleury said the Albany and Mason voters could have voted for a complete slate had they voted in Lovell or Watford. But, as Mrs. Salway said, "It's out of the way. It's a good half-hour."

And her husband, David, said, "If I had to drive clear to Lovell, I'd say to heck with it."

Ms. Fleury, in the secretary of state's office, noted that even driving to Lovell would not clear up all the problems of disenfranchisement for the Albany voters, because they would not find their county commissioner included on the Lovell ballot. The number three commissioner is the one Albany voters for, and the number one commissioner is on the Lovell ballot, she said.

Mrs. Salway had her own idea on how to solve the problem: "I'm not blaming anyone, (but) it would make it easier . . . if we had our own polling place. It would make it less confusing."

The political campaigning is over. The voice of the majority has spoken. Now all the anger, charges, counter-charges, incessant commercials, conducted polls, and the analysis of projected results are completed—(did I say completed)—now we will be bombarded by the media, as to why we the American people chose to vote the way we did!

When all the trumpets have been sounded, all the whys and wherefores have been explored, when will the matter of complete trust in our democratic system ever be brought up; and realize that unity is our most precious asset? As good ol' Honest Abe said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

We must be thankful for free elections, in spite of the behavior of individuals that sometimes shows itself, in a campaign year.

We must be thankful for the privilege of being able to openly differ in opinions with others, and grateful for the opportunity to do so.

Whatever candidate you chose to cast your vote for—the overall results must be accepted with complete confidence, that we, as an independent, strong nation, have chosen the men and women who will keep us free, within this great democracy, and as Armistice Day approaches, lay down our verbal arms, cast aside our political slogans and one liners, forget the rancor and bitterness—forget the catchy phrases meant to woo the crowds, and get back to the basic business as to what should concern us most—a UNITED STATES of America—forging ahead and standing shoulder to shoulder—working together to insure the principles upon which this country was founded.

The Gilead Women's Club held their annual Halloween party Oct. 31. There were 40 children and several adults present. Costume prizes were awarded as follows: 5 and under—pretty, Alicia Taylor; scary, B. Chapman; funny, K. Mason; most original, Jennifer Morin, 6 to 9—pretty, Jamie Corriveau; scary, Freeman Corriveau; funny, Steve Taylor; most original, Brad McLain, 10 and up—pretty, Buffy Taylor; scary, Frances Corriveau; funny, Shelly Corriveau; most original, Belinda Corriveau. Games were played and refreshments served consisted of cider and doughnuts and each child received a bag of candy to take home.

North

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Celista Morgan, Corres. —

Once again Halloween has come and gone. A goblin rang my doorbell and a ghost floated on my porch. I gave them goodies from my dishes for "Trick or Treats" were their wishes. I could see beneath their costumes and tell by their voice that they were friendly neighbors' little girls and boys.

I got to wondering how a vegetable like the pumpkin that was domesticated by the American Indians came to be associated with our Halloween. I found that archeologists had been able to identify amidst Indian ruins, that it predated Halloween by several thousand years.

At the time the first settlers from Europe arrived on this continent Indians were growing pumpkins. They gave the settlers pumpkin seeds. The pumpkin played an important role in Thanksgiving celebrations for some 200 years before it became involved in North American Halloween.

Halloween had developed from a Celtic celebration of the New Year which came after the harvest. The Celts believed that the Lord of Death, Samhain, allowed the souls of the dead to wander about on the 31st of October, the last day of their year.

Eventually the Romans conquered the Celts in the first century A.D. Then their somewhat happier all harvest became intermixed with the Celtic New Year ceremonies. In the 9th century A.D. the Catholic Church established an All Saints' Day and had it coincide with the pre-Christian celebrations. The night before the All Saints' Day was the Hallowed Eve, "Hallow e'en." There it became the Catholic-Roman-Christian setting which we have now.

How did the tradition and practice implicate the North American pumpkin? According to a legend — there was once an Irishman named John, who was miserly and drank too much. He tricked the Devil, was barred from hell, never changed, couldn't get into Heaven so was doomed to wander the earth as an disembodied spirit. Irish children used turnips hollowed out, lighted them with a candle inside, to commemorate Jack, as a Jack-o-lantern.

When the Irish came to America they brought their custom with them but found the pumpkin made much better Jack-o-lanterns than their turnips. So today we carve the pumpkins with a smile, a frown, a smirk, or a leer, but always with a glow on Oct. 31.

As I finish writing "Halloween" I look from my window. The pond is dark like soft black velvet. Beyond rises the mountains, where my thoughts fall far away from Oct. 31 and are lost among the peaks. Then I look to the bright star above Patch Mountain which with the moon is reflected in the water. A day's end and perfect.

TELSTAR JUNIOR REIVES CLASS "C" ALL-STAR FIELD HOCKEY HONORS

"She's an outstanding player and a good team player," says Telstar field hockey coach Sally Hannon of Penny York, who was voted to the Class C All-Star team by opposing coaches. Penny and her coach will attend the all-state all-star banquet in Augusta this Saturday.

A junior, Penny has moved up to become the second highest scorer in Telstar field hockey history. With her eight goals this past season, she now has 32 goals to her credit. The school's all-time top scorer is still Georgia Gould, who graduated last year, with 55 goals during her tenure at Telstar, had been in the second spot until this year. Both Gould and Davis were honorable mentions in last year's all-star balloting.

Coach Hannon said the awarding of an all-star slot to York is particularly satisfying because of the Rebel's below-average showing this year. They finished 5-10-1 and were ranked 13th. "Even though we were way down, I'm glad she was recognized. She deserved it," said Mrs. Hannon.

York has been recognized before. In her freshman year, she was voted rookie-of-the-year by her teammates. This year, as a junior, she was the highest-scoring member of the team. Her coach describes her as "a very aggressive player." She is the daughter of Carol Hathaway of Bryant Pond and Irving York of Bethel.

OUTING CLUB'S SKI SALE EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

The Bethel Outing Club reported going way over expectations in last weekend's ski sale. The club's Don Angevine said his goal had been around $15,000 in sales. Instead, they sold "just shy of $25,000" worth of skis and assorted equipment and clothing.

They began the sale Friday night, with nearly 3,000 pieces of gear and clothing on sale, mostly supplied by 13 ski shops. The crowds were tremendous that night. "They just lined up at the door, well out into the street (before the 6:30 p.m. opening)," said Mr. Angevine.

The amount of goods sold reflected the 120 per cent increase over sales of last year. Mr. Angevine said. He cited the "tremendous cooperation" from Gould Academy, in whose field house the event was held, for much of the success of the sale, which went on through last Saturday.

He said the annual sale would be held again next fall.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Genealogy is a fascinating subject. It tells little about a person's true nature, although if there are such things as inherited characteristics perhaps it reveals a bit about his background. It can often be used purely for snob appeal. It can sometimes be highly fictionalized. It can become little more than a game. It requires a great deal of research. Yet we all have a fascination with our "roots."

The Curator's mother has done a lot of research on family background, for instance. There were three New Hampshire governors and a lieutenant governor, a founder of Boston, Indian scouts, soldiers at Lexington and Bunker Hill, settlers of several local towns, a stagecoach driver, and even a tenuous connection to one of America's early poets, William Cullen Bryant. It is quite an impressive list. Larry is very proud of it and has the genealogy all on a chart on his bedroom wall. Yet he readily admits he doesn't know what good such distinguished forebears do him. But interest in genealogy continues, and probably will until the end of time.

Historical societies help with genealogy. Most have done cemetery surveys or have records of births and deaths. So view us as a resource if you, too, want to research your "roots."

This week's meeting of the society will be at the Woodstock School at 7 p.m. on Saturday. It will feature a program on the Garden Club by Past President Anne Crockett. Members are reminded to bring items for the Society's Thanksgiving basket.

OPEN HOUSE BEING PLANNED AT TRHS, THURSDAY, NOV. 15

Telstar Regional High School is finalizing plans for its Thursday, Nov. 15, open house. The format is being revamped this fall. The evening will begin at 7 p.m. with a film concerning students and habits in the Lecture Hall.

Following the film, parents, students and faculty members will move into the library for small group discussions. To highlight National Education Week, some of the topics will be: Have teachers changed over the years? If so how? Have students changed, or have the schools changed? If there has been change, has it been for the better or worse? Continued discussion will then be turned to the positive and negative aspects of Telstar school life, and how things can be improved or changed if possible, or accepted as the best. It is hoped that a variety of questions by parents will be posed.

Faculty members will be a part of, but not lead the group work. Parents will be able to make appointments for student conferences with teachers, but should not plan on lengthy teacher/parent meetings that evening.

Rank cards for all high school students will be given to parents and refreshments will be served in the lower hall.

CITIZEN'S SPECIAL SECTION COMES OFF PRESS

The Bethel Citizen's winter recreation special section came off the color press in Lewiston earlier this week and today was being taken down to Boston by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce for distribution at the Boston Ski Show over the weekend. The special section, of which 20,000 copies were printed, will also be distributed through Boston area ski shops throughout the winter.

The special section is The Citizen's first venture into offset printing of a newspaper and the first venture into the use of full color. Because of the complexities of the job, the special section was printed on the color press of the Lewiston Sun-Journal, rather than on The Citizen's own press.

The front and back covers are in full color and show recreational
